MESOPOTAMIAN ARMY MEETS WITH DECISIVE REVERSE,— MAY MEAN ABANDONMENT OF CAMPAIGN.

Berlin, wireless to Sayville, Jan. 10. The British army at Kut-el-Amara, in Mesopotamia, has now been surrounded completely by the Turks, according to Constantinople advices given out today by Overseas News service. It is said the Turks have advanced to main defense of the British, the main British army in Mesopotamia, according to the advices, is in retreat, 10,000 men having been left at Kut-el-Amara to cover the movements.

Recent dispatches indicated that the British expedition in Mesopotamia was confronted by superior forces and it would have difficulty in maintaining itself. The defenses of the city, in fact, were attacked by Turks some time ago, resulting in severe fighting, but the British were able to repulse the attack.

The retreat from Kut-el-Amara, as similar to the correctness of unconfirmed advices from Berlin, apparently means that the British are still attempting to the present at least for an offensive campaign in Mesopotamia. It was in November, 1914, that an Anglo-Indian force starting from the Persian gulf began marching north and west over the desert, following the Tigris and Euphrates rivers, wherever possible. The fighting was slow and exhausting but the British pushed northward steadily until they reached the region of Kut-el-Amara 230 miles northwest of the head of the Persian gulf. They defeated the Turks there and advanced to Ctesiphon, eighteen miles below Bagdad.

The Turks sent up large forces to save Bagdad and after an initial defeat, attacked and won victory over the invaders. The British fell back on Kut-el-Amara, 105 miles southeast of Bagdad but there has been no previous information that they intended to abandon the point.

Claim Turks in Defeat.

London, Jan. 10.—The Turks in Mesopotamia were in full retreat on January 9, with the British pursuing them, it was announced in the house of commons today by J. Austin Chamberlain, secretary for India.

The King Edward VII has been appointed to command the British forces in Mesopotamia, in succession to General Sir John French, Nixon, who has been compelled by ill-health to return home. It was announced in the house of commons today by J. Austin Chamberlain, secretary for India.

Pang to British Public.

The sinking of the King Edward VII has caused another pang to the British public.

The brief official statement does not reveal the scene of the accident and merely says that the disaster occurred in heavy sea, despite which the crew was saved before the ship went down.

The King Edward VII represented an investment of nearly $8,000,000 and was one of the finest of the last class of pre-dreadnaughts, corresponding in general to the American ships of the New Jersey and Nebraska type, and was only slightly older than the Niall, which was sunk by an internal explosion about a week ago.

Congress of Greek Colonists in Session at Paris Believes Policy of Neutrality Should Be Abandoned.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Paris, Jan. 10.—The congress of Greek colonists abroad, attended by delegates from the United States, Canada, England, France, Russia, Switzerland and Roumania, met here today with Gregory Trichopoulos presiding.

After several discussions of the war situation, the congress resolved:

First, that the urgent question was that of securing respect for the constitutional liberties of Greece.

Second, that it was to the interest of Greece to abandon neutrality and join the allies.

Third, that the congress should not break up until this task was completed, and meantime power would be delegated to an executive committee charged with carrying out these decisions.

Paris, Jan. 10.—The Belgian official press bureau gave out the following today:

Monsignor Heylan, Bishop of Nivelles, Belgium, who is passing through Switzerland on his way to Rome, has made various statements that he would write a long answer to the German vice book (concerning allegations of German atrocities in Belgium) and send it to General Bissel, German military governor of Belgium; to the foreign diplomats and consuls in Belgium, to the Vatikan and to the Belgian episcopate. He said in November.

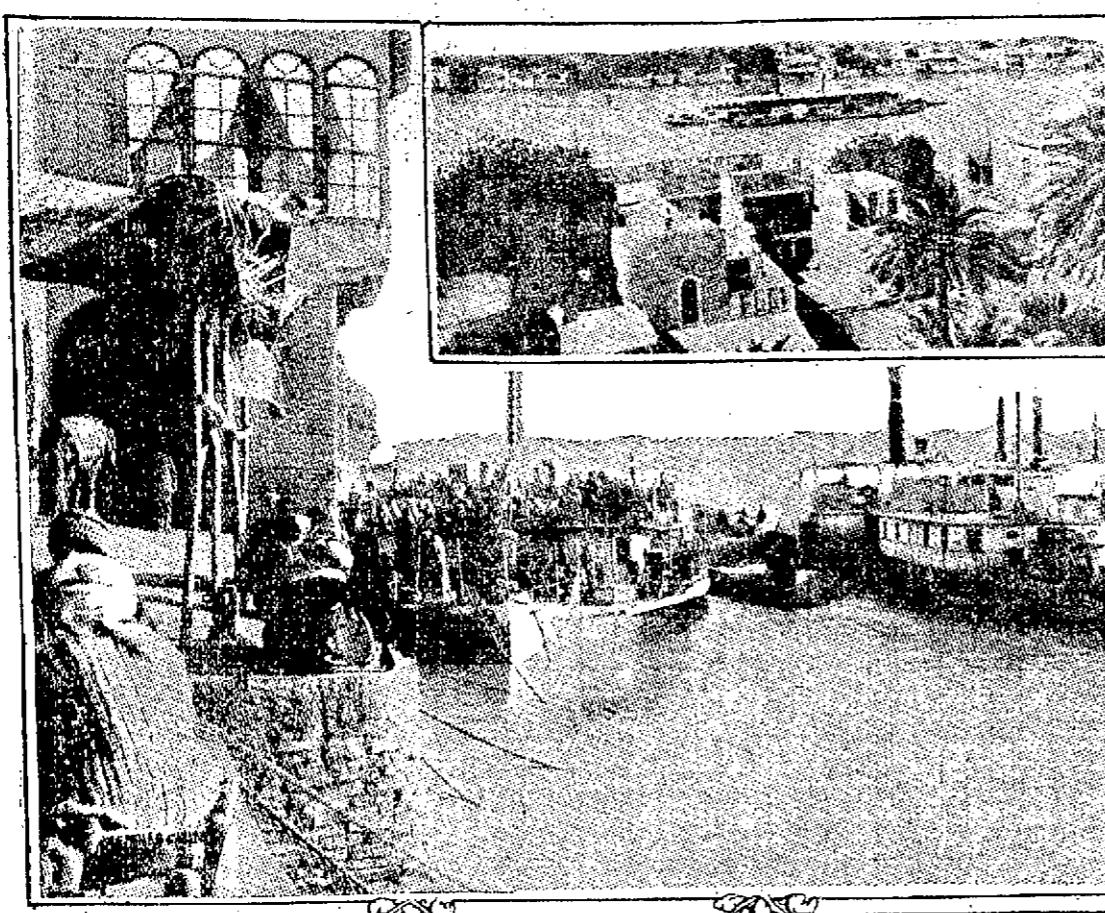

He recently Cardinal Mercier (Archbishop of Belgium) together with Bishop of Nivelles, Lange and Tourist, addressed a letter to the German episcopate asking that it intervene with the imperial government to obtain an inquiry into charges of German atrocities in Belgium. This letter has not been answered.

The Bishops of Belgium have sent a collective letter to Austrian and French bishops replying to denials of atrocities of the two empires that allegations respecting German atrocities are authentic said the Rome correspondents of Paris.

GERMAN OFFENSIVE COSTS HEAVILY IN CHAMPAGNE REGION

French Break Down Attacks, Inflicting Heavy Losses, Says French Statement.—Germans

Claim Gains.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Paris, Jan. 10.—Heavy attacks were made yesterday by German troops in the Champagne, the war office announced today. The German attacks broke down with heavy losses, the statement says, and although they gained temporary footholds in French positions in various places, they were subsequently driven out everywhere, except from a portion of two advanced trenches.

Offensive in Champagne.

Berlin, wireless to Sayville, Jan. 10.—An offensive movement has been inaugurated by German forces in the Champagne. Announcements were made to the war office today that French positions extending over several hundred yards at a point northwest of Nussiger had been captured by the Germans.

The war office announces that near Hirzstein, south of Hartmanns-Weilerkopf, the Germans have completed the reconquest of French tanks in the French line in Dachstein. Twenty officers and eighty-three chasseurs and fifteen machine guns were captured.

WOMAN NAMES THUG FOR OMAHA MURDER

Alleged Murderer Goes on Trial Today for Slaying of Escort of Woman Who Testifies.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Omaha, Jan. 10.—Arthur Bauer, alleged highwayman and assailant of women in several cities, went on trial today on charges of killing W. H. Smith, cashier of Woodmen of the World, on the night of October 18, last.

The principal witness for the prosecution is Miss Grace Slater, an employee at Woodmen headquarters, who Smith was accompanying home from a "Billy" Sunday meeting at the time of the tragedy.

Miss Slater, who positively identified Bauer, as have others who were victims of previous holdups. In each instance the holdups were accompanied by indignities to the women.

Afterward the murderer forced Miss Slater to accompany him in a walk through the western part of the city, but finally put her on a car for home along the recognized route of so many Americans.

The United States has been contending that the disavowal should be expected in some way. It is believed that a form of expression has been found which will be satisfactory to both and one more exchange between Washington and Berlin will settle the case, unless something unforeseen comes up.

General Scott, chief of staff reiterated Secretary Garrison's views that if the continental army plan failed, there was no escape from compulsory service. Every country at war in Europe realized that he had, and he expressed a view that England might have better realized it sooner.

General Scott said that under a service system which laid the burden and responsibility all men between eighteen and twenty-one as a public duty, an adequate army could be maintained for what is now paid for the small standing army. He thought the pay under such a system should be merely nominal.

Of the efficiency of the regular army now, he said: "Our organizations as far as they go, compare favorably with the troops of any foreign power."

School training was desired but not practical because of lack of control by the federal government, the general thought. He believed it would not be necessary to provide additional military academies to train officers needed for a proposed mobile army of 500,000 men.

War Not Anticipated.

The plan of the administration as a measure of self defense, he said, was not proposed in the anticipation of war. He believed the organization of the continental army would not interfere with recruiting for the national guard, because the two forces would appeal to different classes of men. He added that training in the continentals would produce better soldiers than the national guard system.

BELIEVE AGREEMENT IN LUSITANIA CASE PRACTICALLY MADE

Von Bernstorff and Lansing Hold Another Conference Today.—Germany Ready to Give Indemnity.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, Jan. 10.—Count Von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, and Secretary Lansing had another conference on the Lusitania negotiations today which both agreed should be described as confidential.

The ambassador expects to confer with the secretary again inside of a week and not again on the conference, that fact being that there is no agreement in the status of the case to date that Germany and the United States have approached a point in the negotiations where only one more exchange between Washington and Berlin will be necessary before the long controversy is ended.

American officials in all quarters describe the situation as "very hopeful" and reflected the view that a satisfactory settlement is in sight which will include indemnities for the 115 American lives lost, and some expression of regret or disavowal which will be mutually satisfactory to Germany and the United States. President Wilson, Secretary Lansing and the German ambassador are probably the only officials who are secret to the negotiations, but it is known that the principle point which had been delaying the final settlement, was the phylosophy.

Germany has contended that the best disavowal she could offer were her orders to submarine commanders not to repeat such an incident and she could not disavow the sinking of so many American lives. The United States has been contending that the disavowal should be expected in some way. It is believed that a form of expression has been found which will be satisfactory to both and one more exchange between Washington and Berlin will settle the case, unless something unforeseen comes up.

GAFFNEY WILL BUY NEW YORK "GIANTS"

Former Owner of Braves Now Turns Around and Putting Through Deal to Buy New York Club.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

New York, Jan. 10.—A deal where by the New York Giants will be sold soon to James Gaffney, 70, of Boston, Mass., Charles F. Pratt, Brooklyn, N. Y., Lewis C. Ladd, New York, and Edward D. Robbins, New Haven. The final vote on the five defendants upon whom the jurors could not agree stood 8 to 4 for acquittal.

R. L. Batts, chief counsel for the government, announced that in due time he would move for a new trial, but the trial was not done, he said, as far as his effort will be made to try the six other former directors of the road that were indicted but who obtained the right to be tried separately.

The verdict was returned at 4:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon, after fifty hours of deliberation, and the jury was discharged.

The president today received several invitations to speak at banquets or meetings here in New York and Boston, and the new model, not the invitation, are known to be coming. Officials intimated today the president might take advantage of the invitations to lay the administration plan for national defense directly before the people.

As soon as the submarine controversy is entirely cleared up the president intends to direct his whole attention to getting the national defense plans through congress.

While you smoke and after you smoke—COMFORT!

Good taste is important in a cigarette—mighty important, of course—but it isn't everything.

Fatimas, for instance, taste so good that for years they have been outselling every other cigarette costing over 5 cents.

But Fatimas give you something else besides good taste—something else that helps to explain why so many thousands and thousands of men stick to Fatimas against all other cigarettes.

That "something else" is cigarette-comfort—while you are smoking them and after you smoke them.

You don't care how good a cigarette may taste if, while you are smoking it, that cigarette burns your tongue or "catches" you in your throat? Fatimas have a good taste but they don't do that—they're comfortable!

And better yet, Fatimas leave you feeling comfortable afterwards. You can smoke Fatimas more freely than any other cigarette we know anything about without having any heavy or "mean" feeling of having smoked too much.

That's why they're so SENSIBLE.

Try Fatimas—right NOW if you're ready—and prove for yourself how SENSIBLE they are.

SPRING ISN'T HERE; COLD WAVE COMING

Even if Robins Did Appear In City Yesterday, It's No Sign Winter Is Over.

It was balmy and springlike this morning, but that fact should not lead one to believe that spring has arrived. Far from it. A cold wave from the northwest, probably originating up near Medicine Hat, the home of blizzards, is due to arrive Saturday—and it may get here ahead of schedule. But it is a new year; late don't worry that it will not come. It will be well to order more coal if the supply is low in the bin.

With the warm wave came the rumor that Mr. Robin Redbreast had arrived in Janesville, but it is likely that his visit will not be protracted. The first official report that Mr. Robin had been seen came from Edward Horn of the Ideal Chemical Corp. Horn was accompanied by a tatty, shabby-robed robin, nipped and twittered for fully half an hour in the yard of his residence on Sunday. Chan Kilmer was the second to report a glimpse of the first harbinger of spring, but others followed, indicating that there must

THE STAFF OF LIFE.

The sensational advances in wheat will convey an ominous significance to the housewife. A grocer predicted a few days ago that before spring, brands of wheat costing $6.50 before the war, would go to $9.00 or more.
This will be less than the record price of about $10.00 for these grades last year. But the advance will come closer home of working people than any other present result of the war.

In spite of American prosperity, there are still large sections of our population for whom bread is the main article of subsistence. To great numbers of recent immigrants meat is almost a prohibited luxury. They may pick up some remnants and bones cheap, but only for use as an appetizer.
Bread and soup are the menu.
A touch of onions or other pungent vegetable may be used to give the meal some tang.

A well seasoned soup has a surprising effect to give an otherwise dry proverber some flavor, and makes a meal seem more substantial than it really is. With this added relish, many newcomers to America will grieve along for days on their long leaves baked after the foreign manner.

Wheat bread of course is food of the most substantial character. People of indoor life and finicky appetites would not eat enough of it for full nourishment. The manual laborer, hungry from his fatiguing task, puts it down with avidity. If he came from the old country, he may have learned to eat it without butter.

The present high wheat prices will again encourage the farmer to stuff every possible acre with the staple grains, and hire money to pay his help. But the wastes of trench life are great, the demand for wheat flour is enormous, and the American working man will pay high for his loaf while the war lasts.

It will certainly be a great year for the back yard garden. A few square feet put into potatoes will go far to reduce the flour bill, and provide a nourishing substitute.

THE LOOKERS.

A big problem for the merchants is how to deal with people who walk through their stores in an aimless way looking for goods, but with no definite purpose as to buying.

The story is told of a clerk who was once exasperated by a woman who was looking for baskets. He pulled down all but two on the top of a long shelf.

The woman finally turned away in an undecided manner.

"Don't believe I'll take any today;
I only came in to look for a friend,"
she said.

"Madam," replied the clerk, "if you think your friend is in either one of those two baskets up there I will look them."

Every merchant knows that type of shopper. The best way to deal with them is to describe goods definitely to the public by good advertising.
Then they start out with a more positive purpose to buy, they go direct to the man whose notice interested them, and usually buy without shopping further.

A correspondent asks what has become of the boy who could repeat the Westminster catechism and ten or fifteen psalms by heart. The editor hasn't seen anything of him lately, but he thinks it is his grandson who is never able to answer any questions in the Sunday school because he loses his lesson quarterly every week.

It is claimed that money will go five times farther in securing the service of homoeopathic doctors than in calling old school physicians, but then the pills are less than a fifth as big.

Little china dogs with crystal eyes are a popularfad for hush-a-brac this winter. There would be more peace among some neighbors if the above were substituted for the live kind.

Much is being said about the credit monopoly, but there are few stores in this country where you can't get trusted if your clothes are bought of the proper tailor.

It may be all right for the office seekers to wear out the white house door mats, but they should not jerk the bell pull out of order more than once a week.

In view of the scarcity of auto fuel it would seem as if use could be made of the enormous quantities of hot air used in selling them.

Pictures painted after the new style of art need to be clearly marked as to which is the top. The purchaser wouldn't know.

New York has a card index of drunkards. They could make up an index of temperance men in a much smaller file.

The tons of government documents being printed all the time must save some one quite a charge for buying one.

One way not to keep office is to be conspicuously efficient. That isn't what the voters created offices for.

Things certainly are quieting down in Mexico. They haven't killed a president for several weeks.

A Clever Landlord.
There is a man in this town,
And he is a landlord, wise.
He certainly has not it on
A lot of other guys.
For while his tenants shiver
And suffer from the storm,
He sits in his own flat down stairs,
All cozy-like and warm.
For when he built the place, you see,
He made his own flat best;
With radiators twice as long
As any of the rest.

The Dingfeathers' Dinner.

"I wonder, I wonder;
Get out and look under."

—Munder.

The Dingfeathers' dinner was in full swing. Mrs. Dingfeather was at the head of the table and Mr. Ding-feather was at the foot, signifying in the Dingfeathers' subtle way that Mrs.
Dingfeather was the head of the family and Mr. Dingfeather footed the bill.

All the ladies were appropriately dressed for company, and none more so than Marselle Hiskins.

Directly opposite Marselle sat
Harold Dighandie and Ferdy Wisbus, gay sons of the famous toothpick and rowbar magnates, respectively.

Suddenly Harold poked his head under the table, and then, lifting it into view again, whispered excitedly to Ferdy.

Ferdy shook his head and then he too looked under the table.

"You're wrong," he said. "I win."

"We'll appeal to Miss Hiskins herself," said Harold. "Marselle is the color of your gown red or green?"

"Brown," replied Marselle with a lovely smile.

"We both lose," cried Harold.

accustomed to the best society, we take the liberty of explaining that the author intends to convey the point that Miss Hiskins' evening gown was so very decolleté as to be visible only underneath the table.)

German Tells of Vast Importance Zeppellin Fleet Is in Protecting Nation
From Allies.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS]

Zurich, Switzerland, Jan. 10.—Describing a recent visit to the German fleet, Dr. Otto Gaupe writes in the Muenchener Neueste Nachrichten: "Our silent fleet, we also say with some right, which still and earnest, unseen and unmarked, day and night, summer and winter, in storm and sunshine, stands on guard in the North Sea and in the Baltic, thereby playing a role, of whose higher, I might also say more decisive importance, only a few among us can have any conception. We hear of no submarine, which, excepted England's, which is superior, but who has heard for months of our great battleships, our large and small cruisers, our ever increasing torpedo boats, which stand behind these submarines and make their increased activities possible."

Has Advantages.

"There can be no German who doubts that behind the thick veil covering our battle fleet, everything is in the best order, the liveliest activity, never slumbering, watchfulness, and everyone burning to serve the Fatherland, not by passive, but active engagement in a conflict, whose bearing would exceed even that of the lightning in the darkness. One need not go long with the fleet to be convinced that the strictest secrecy in war is far more necessary than for the army. On the warship one gets the impression of enormous concentrated force, and power of movement, of which a mobilized fleet is capable. A curt command, and dozens and still dozens of gigantic guns are mounted, showing that one at a moment of any dimension. Another command, and a few hours later the fleet are many miles from their first position. Ships in action must carry everything they need, for battle and existence, there are no reserves for them, no impassable ways, they cross the waters with the speed of ocean trains and a few hours' journey can bring decisive results on the result of which the fate of war depends. One need only think a little to understand the absolute necessity that nothing at all should be made public regarding the movements, the location, the composition of the fleet."

After pointing out that the British Admiralty need hardly trouble to explain to their country the value of their fleet in this war, that it is continuing its opposition against the unimportant destruction of the empire, and that its loss would be followed by a blockade, famine and instant capitulation, Dr. Gaupe goes on to say that it is not so easy for a German to understand clearly the German fleet now plays.

Protects Germany.

"It is not Germany's only protection and only weapon," he writes, "but the fleet is a piece of armor covering a vulnerable spot, and thereby making the free handling of arms and shield possible. Without it the enemy would be at work in the harbors in the Baltic and the North Sea, without our arms would have to be reckoned with at any moment, and thus bring up large armies for their protection. Without the fleet, our most important way into the open, leading over the Baltic, would have been shut from the first days of the war. Without it England could have brought still different pressure to bear on Denmark, and in the Netherlands, and might have terrorized the whole Balkans into joining the entente, without it every attempt of the neutrals to restrict the English depots over the sea would be needless. Only the existence of a strong German fleet has forced England to pay a certain regard to the United States; without it England's chances of winning down into peace would be ten times greater than they are today."

"I do not believe that any Englishman with technical expert knowledge doubts that our fleet has pursued the one correct, and for England, fatal strategy, of continuing as a fleet in being, and so made the enemy's supremacy at sea only provisional and conditional, to provoke a decisive battle against an overwhelmingly superior force would be heroic, but it could not be war, it would be playing the enemy's game. That our navy would take any opportunity to measure herself against the foe, where the chances were at all equal, she has proved sufficiently and will also prove further. It is also certain that the English will give them no such opportunity, if they know it. Before the war I heard in England, over and over again, that the German fleet, ship for ship, was as good as the English—in the mouth of the Elbe, Lubeck, the highest praise he could give the experiences they have had since may make them doubt if they said enough and now they may prefer only fight when they are certain of having a greater force."

CHINESE RESENT OTHER
FOREIGN POWERS FAVORING
THE JAPANESE

Peking, Jan. 10.—Most of the veracular papers printed in the treaty ports take a very gloomy view of the action of Italy, Russia, France and England in supporting Japan's request for a postponement of the monarchical movement in China. They regard the action of the European powers as judicial, and their willingness to allow Japan to interfere with Chinese domestic policies.

A Chinese contributor to the Peking Daily News makes this statement of the case, which is typical, perhaps, of the views held by the majority of the educated Chinese: "Such short-sighted diplomacy on the part of the three great nations is bound to create future international discord and lead to everlasting dissension of the political equilibrium in the Orient. The questions that will immediately come to one's mind are: Will the English, Russian and French people be willing to have all special privileges that they have succeeded in laboriously building up in the last two decades destroyed by following the selfish dictation of Japan?" After the war, what will the English and the others do when they discover that the Japanese have stepped into their shoes and crowded them out of commercial Asia?

"With the Tsing-tung episode as a precedent, it is as certain as night follows day that Japan, using this 'advice' as pretext, will demand further concessions and privileges that will rival the infamous twenty-one demands. Is it possible that the European powers fail to grasp the real meaning behind this last 'altruistic peace insuring' movement?"

The searchlight of international publicity to the dark corners of Japanese diplomacy read the writing on the wall, and you may yet save yourselves from the serious predicament of having your houses burned through your own inexcusable fault of blindly following Japanese and indirectly assisting them to consummate their devilish plans."

IDAHO COMPANIES REJECT
ALL LARGE WAR ORDERS

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Moscow, Idaho, Jan. 10.—At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Idaho national harvester company, the Idaho national harvester company, contracts tendered for the manufacture of war munitions were rejected. The company declined to convert its harvester plant to turn out shrapnel, torpedo caps and other war accessories.

The Idaho national harvester company is the largest exclusively commercial harvester plant in the world. The machine is an Idaho product invented by Idaho men and financed principally by the Fox Film Corporation to play in "The Clemenceau Case," the latest of the Fox photoplay cases. The company declined to convert its harvester plant to turn out shrapnel, torpedo caps and other war accessories.

FOODS THEY BUILD OR DESTROY

Amazing but rarely suspected truths about the things you eat.
By ALFRED W. McCANN (Copyright, 1916, by Alfred W. McCann.)

The Gazette starts a series of articles by Alfred T. McCann on pure food that should prove most interesting. Mr. McCann is an authority on such matters and his articles are instructive to every reader. The first chapter will be found below:

CHAPTER 1.

Live stock and crops are fed according to fixed laws. Infants and children are fed in ignorance and care.

Our daily food is less understood after twenty-five years of agitation than is perhaps the referendum on the sixth dimension. Not one woman in ten thousand can give a definition of the phrase. Notwithstanding the fact that to the housewife and to those dependent upon her payment for their health and every there is no thing more vital, she is as much mystified over its meaning today as when she first began to read about Dr. Wiley's activities.

abies are born every day and every day children are fitted for school. Their food is their first and most important necessity. Without pure food all the tender nursing and all the love and care lavished upon them soon take the shape of anxiety and fear.

Owners of stock farms, producers of size sheep, poultry, and hogs understand its meaning thoroughly. They apply their knowledge of its meaning and measure the results according to fixed rules. They know that the growth and health of their animals depend upon the operation of clearly defined and easily understood laws.

They make a business of feeding their animals for certain desired ends. To them pure food is not a mystery. It is a means with which to supply proper building materials to the physical development of the creatures in which their money is invested; a means with which they may effectively prevent disorder and sickness among their herds, flocks, kennels, and litters.

Where the faults originate in the idle caprice of the housewife herself, through thoughtlessness of her own or inheritance from some or grandmother's superstitions, the result of such household sins, when applied to the diet of mice, rabbits, guinea-pigs, monkeys, chickens, and cows will be described.

Where the abuse is purely commercial, the lid will be taken off and in such instances as are not born in lust for gain at the expense of human life the natural and practical reform will be pointed out.

For the old abuses for which politics and clever lawyers have succeeded in erecting a flimsy protection and defense for outrageous and unnatural practices there will be no mercy.

The physician who follows this constructive reform will come into the possession of facts which unfortunately are not to be obtained in the medical schools of Europe or America, and he will receive new information with regard to many of the causes of malnutrition, anemia, neurasthenia, tuberculosis, and other preventable diseases which, in form of needless pain, are so frequently visited upon the bodies of innocent women and children.

WOMAN'S PAGE

Marrying for Money

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

"But I don't love you," she objected. "You surely do not want a wife who does not love you and knows it. People are often mistaken about such things, but I know." Ortitude Blakely smiled with a candid indifference at her companion.

The man persisted. He was used to having his way.

"I would teach you to love me. You do not dislike me, do you?" His tone was earnest.

"No, I am too indifferent to you to dislike you," she replied frankly.

"You do me no harm or the other. You are too old." She tapped with a paper knife on the table, the personification of careless indifference.

"You could not remain indifferent if I married you. I would give you everything that money could buy," he pleaded. "I would be so devoted to you that you would learn to love me." The man leaned forward and tried to take her hand.

She drew the hand away. "You know how your children would feel to have you marry someone so near their ages," she reminded him. "I am not hunting trouble."

"I have thought of all that. I would settle enough property on you to keep you comfortably always and then you would agree to have no portion of the property after my death," he proposed. "It is always the money that makes trouble. By giving you your portion outright we will save all that. The children will be happy enough to see that they have nothing to gain by opposition in any case."

She gave him her hand for answer.

Heart and Home Problems

LETTERS TO MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Letters May Be Addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in Care of The Gazette. Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am seventeen years old and a junior in high school. One of the popular boys has been keeping company with me. He is very handsome and all the girls are crazy about him. He has come to see me about ten times and gave me a box of candy for Christmas. The last few times he came he asked me to kiss him good night, and I refused to let him. Then the last time he came he said that if I would let him he wouldn't come anymore. I told him that if he felt that way he needn't. He didn't come again and I don't know what to do, because I love him. As long as I love him I don't think it would be all right to kiss him, because he seems to want it so much and won't come any other way.

Yours, etc., BUD.

You have done just the right thing, girlie, to make that boy respect you more than ever if he is the right sort of fellow. He will probably stay away for a while until he sees he will come to see you again.

A popular boy is so spoiled usually that if he doesn't have his way he gets sulky. But the girl who will not let him have his own way is much more fascinating than the one who will. He pursues her until he gets it. Don't let him kiss you if he comes back. His coming will show that you have conquered and that it will not be necessary to do as he wants when you know a better way.

Yours, etc., CINDERELLA.

The love he has for your cousin is a thorn that time and absence will make him outgrow. Let him come to see you on a friendship basis and try to consider him only as a friend. You are too young to give much thought to love.

In reply to "A Faithful Reader": Your questions should be answered by a physician who understands your case. He alone could prescribe the proper foods for you.

SIDE TALKS

BY RUTH CAMERON

WAIT AWHILE.

Serene, I fold my hands and wait. What if Mrs. B. say when I told them what I asked that I had been trying to get a friend of ours on the wire? "She didn't get her," she said.

"They didn't answer?"

"No, but they gave me the wrong number twice."

"Why didn't you get the chief and insist on getting the right number?" I asked impatiently.

She Got the Wrong Number Twice.

"Well, my dear," she said serenely, "I didn't think it was really worth while. When they get upset and start giving me wrong numbers instead of persisting and getting it right off them, they are just as bad as if they had tried again. Usually I just wait awhile and try again."

Sometimes I can't seem to write a line on the typewriter without making two or three mistakes, and when I try to correct them, of course I make two or three more.

The Harder I Try, the More Mistakes I Make.

The harder I try, the worse I seem to do. I persist in keeping myself to my task until it is finished. I do it poorly and with a vast expenditure of time and nervous energy, but it is wait awhile and then try again. I have more than make up the time I have lost in the greater facility that follows that fresh start.

A woman who does bookkeeping can do that she knows of no better exercise to add correctly or a balance that consistently comes out wrong than to put the whole thing aside for a few minutes, calm down, and then try again.

Ham for Supper—Chop boiled ham fine, season with mustard, pepper, beaten yolk of an egg and a little oil if desired.

Household Hints

THINGS WORTH KNOWING.

The man got up and began to walk up and down the room with his hands clasped behind him. He was rather tall, with shoulders slightly higher. His iron gray hair had entirely disappeared from the top of his head. The girl followed him with her eyes as he paced up and down.

"He has a strong face," she thought. "He has been used to getting what he wants. That is why he will not take no for an answer."

There was something decidedly pleasant in being the persistently courted by the weather-beaten brawler. Visions of herself installed in a fresh of a fine new home were very alluring. She had always been poor, teaching. She was heartily tired of the school room, of disciplining bad boys and placating unreasonable parents.

Jacob Townsend stopped in front of the girl and, taking her chin in his hand, raised her face to his. She looked steadily into his eyes, a tremor or astirring of any kind.

"You will not refuse me, Ortitude? I can surely make you happier than you are now, unless there is someone else, someone you care for."

"There is no one else," she answered quietly.

"Then you will not refuse?" He was almost compelling in his manner.

"You know you are willing to buy a wife?" she asked with brutal frankness.

"I am willing to take you without love now, hoping to be able to make you so happy that you will learn to love me later," he answered, flushed slightly.

"You understand that if I married you it would be because I long for the opportunity to have things I never have had, to have time to do as I please. I should expect to spend much time." She tossed her head and the proud bearing was very becoming to her.

"I think the business will stand up under your demands," he replied. "Is it yes?"

She gave him her hand for answer.

You could not remain indifferent if I married you. I would give you everything that money could buy," he pleaded. "I would be so devoted to you that you would learn to love me." The man leaned forward and tried to take her hand.

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

BOW LEGS.

Some children are born with bow legs, others achieve them and still others have bow legs thrust upon them. The first born always look bow-legged, pug-nosed, squint-eyed and generally unsatisfactory to the anxious father. Not so the mother, she thinks the homely little stranger beautiful.

If the bow legs are moderate, as they are in most instances, nature will bring about spontaneous recovery in due time. If the deformity is severe, operation is necessary.

Braces are valuable in retaining the correction gained by operation, but it is very doubtful whether any advantage is to be had from applying braces with the idea of gradually straightening the bowing.

Massage and gentle efforts to straighten the legs are advisable in every case of bow legs. This may be done night and morning for five minutes.

Apple Pudding—Put layer of apples in greased baking dish, add sugar, cinnamon and dots of butter, then a layer of milk, eggs, salt and pepper to taste. Beat eggs well and add seasoning, milk and lastly, the prepared fish. Fry as for ordinary omelet, in well-buttered omelet pan. Serve hot and garnish with border of creamed peas.

Salmon Omelet—For appetizing lunch, dice half can salmon, half cup milk, four eggs, salt and pepper to taste. Beat eggs well and add seasoning, milk and lastly, the prepared fish. Fry as for ordinary omelet, in well-buttered omelet pan. Serve hot and garnish with border of creamed peas.

Smoked Steak—Cut a round steak into pieces to serve. Slash across to cut the grain, flour on both sides and fry in butter and lard till browned nicely; then add water and boil an hour. Will make the tough round steak edible.

Chicken Pie With Oysters—Clean and cook chicken whole until tender, then remove bones. Drain liquor from oysters and cook each one over carefully. Line a deep pan with a nice crust, put in a layer of oysters, then a layer of chicken; season each layer with salt, pepper and bits of butter; add a little of the oyster liquor and cream enough to moisten flavor. Bake. Serve with thin slices of lemon.

Salmon Omelet—For appetizing lunch, dice half can salmon, half cup milk, four eggs, salt and pepper to taste. Beat eggs well and add seasoning, milk and lastly, the prepared fish. Fry as for ordinary omelet, in well-buttered omelet pan. Serve hot and garnish with border of creamed peas.

Add this to remainder of milk scalded in a double boiler. Stir constantly for twenty minutes. Add yolks of two eggs beaten up with quarter cup creamed butter, add quarter cup creamed butter, then add a layer of cheese. ### LAKOTAS RUN AWAY WITH BELVIDERE WINNING, 35 TO 21

Have No Trouble In Trimming Belvidere Five Saturday Night—Atwood Scores Eight Goals.

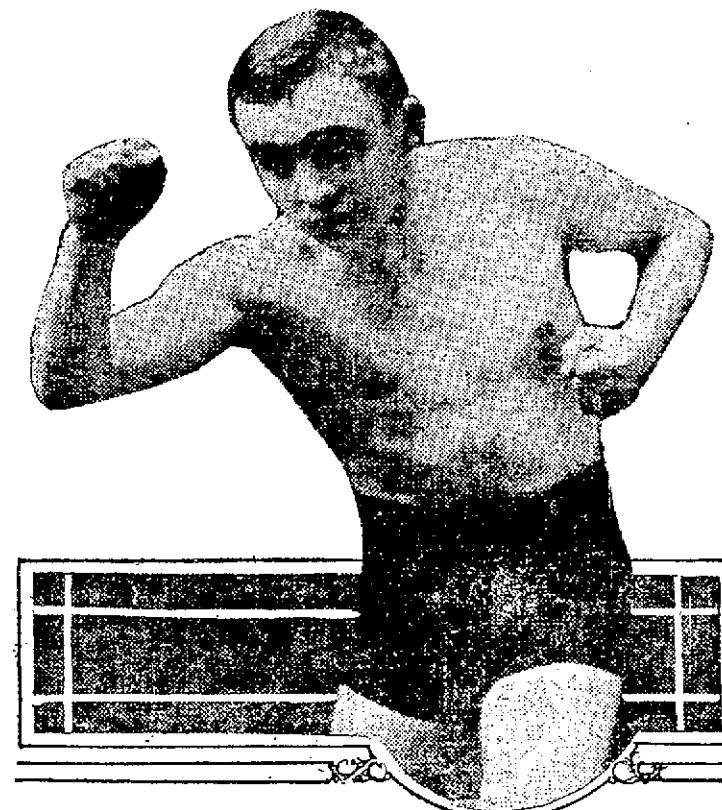

Belvidere proved to be easy prey for the Lakota Cardinals, the Janesville five winning the game Saturday night at the Auditorium by the open-heavy count of 35 to 21 in a game which was tight and interesting in places and then again desultory in spirit. The marked achievement of all this game was the elimination of all rough and intentional fouling, for a violation of the rules was carefully guarded and enforced by Referee Peterson. Atwood made four baskets in each half. Seeing that the lanky Janesville forward was the scoring leader in the Lakota bunch, Manager Dunn Blakes three Belviders men back the four with instructions to watch for "that basket shark." They watched him, but that was all. They watched him making the scores, for Eddie had too much speed and skill to allow but three men to hold him down. Hemming had Peterson running in circles during the game and the basket count of four to one is indicative of how far the Lakota center outdistanced Peterson.

The Lakotas were crippled at that. They did not have Dalton at guard or Korst at forward. Perhaps Dalton's absence figured in the game being so clean, but the spectators would like to have seen the little human dynamite in the game to afford more excitement, even if his fist-like shot was slow. The Lakotas were never in danger and outdistanced Belvidere at every turn and angle of the game. When they wanted to score they did, and just as often as their desire lead them to speed up and execute a few dexterous passes and dribbles. They could have swamped the visitors but a tripped score had they cared, but after obtaining a substantial lead were soon overtaken by Belvidere to pass the ball with reckless abandon until scoring in too profuse amount was threatened. Then the brakes went down, and the Lakota got up gumption and proceeded to "show them how it should be done."

Tillie is Star.

Two men played good basketball for Belvidere. They were Tillie and Adams, who has been on the "bare foot" wade. Tillie has developed in the game until now he can make a foul without blushing or seeking his opponent's pardon and consequently played a hard but still clean game. He only got two basket's over Grey, the Milwaukee guard, but was the best of his team along with the

"Jimmy" Callahan, former manager of the Chicago White Sox, has signed a long-term contract as manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates, to succeed Fred Clarke, resigned, and has secured an option from Barney Dreyfuss by which he is privileged to become owner of about one-third of the stock of the Pittsburgh club.

Whenever Yale men gather in the future and talk over the great deeds done in the past by Eli's sons on the gridiron the record made by the late Tom Shevlin will come in for great praise. Shevlin's deeds on the gridiron will live forever in the hearts of men. The 1905 Yale team, which was captained by Shevlin, went through the season without a defeat and scored 227 points in eleven games to its opponents' four. Princeton was the only eleven to score on the Blue team that year. Yale won the game by a score of 22 to 4, and a week later gained a 6 to 0 victory over Harvard. Wesleyan, Syracuse, Springfield, Training Camp, Holy Cross, Penn State, West Point, Columbia and Brown were all beaten by Shevlin's team. Shevlin is the fourth great Yale football player to die within a decade. The others were Gordon Brown, Stillman and Hogan.

Jim McGuire, veteran catcher and former manager of the Cleveland Indians, attended the last meeting of the American League in Chicago. As he was seated in the lobby one morning, N. P. Beasley of the Detroit Journal said to him: "Jim, what do you know about Waxahatchie (meaning the spot in Texas picked out for a training camp by the Tigers)?" "What league did he pitch in?" asked McGuire. Incidentally, Jim never may have the opportunity to get acquainted with Waxahatchie, as Billy Sullivan has supplemented him as scout and coach for the Tigers.

The costliest bottles of champagne ever drunk are said to be those consumed by Garry Herrmann and Charlie Ebbets at the winter meeting of the National League in the Waldorf Astoria hotel, December 1913. As the result of the effects of those bottles, it is said Ebbets bought Tinker from Herrmann and thus made the Federal league possible and causing a war that cost several millions of dollars.

STATE TOURNEY AT APPLETON IN MARCH

Annual State High School Basketball Meet at Appleton—Highs Have Good Chance to Enter.

Announcements have been received that the twelfth annual interscholastic basketball tournament of the state will be held at Appleton by Lawrence College from March 30th to April first. All games, as in the past, are to be played at the Armory hall.

The news of the scheduling of the state tournament should prove to be most welcome to the Janesville high school and to the basketball team. It had been reported here that no tournament will be attempted by Lawrence College and consequently the school was considering not representing the district at the tournament.

The Janesville team is conceded an excellent chance of attending, for they have not lost an interscholastic game so far, and look to be good enough to win their remaining scheduled games. They have improved by a large percent during the past two weeks, showing rapid strides in the finer points of the game. The highs play Friday at Stoughton. Their hardest game will be against Madison, which will play the first game here on the 24th.

The first game with Beloit is played February first at Beloit. On the eleventh a return game with the old rivals will be played at the high school gymnasium.

It is now a question whether the high school will enter the Beloit or Milton tournament. If they win enough games to allow them to enter the state title meet, it is probable that only one of these tournaments will be entered by the Janesville squad.

The high school basket ball team will not enter the Appleton tournament this year, as they have already consented to join the new State Normal tournament, which will be staged this year.

in his forty-first year, played through 160 games, not missing a single battle. He led the shutouts in fielding and ranked second among the shortstops in batting. He was not quite the Wagner of ten years ago, but he was still far from being through as a big leaguer. Three more seasons will put him over the 3,000 game mark, but there is little chance that he will ever complete the 375 safe drives necessary to complete the 4,000-hit total. It would be beyond all reason if Wagner wasn't Wagner.

Beloit College Basketball Team Too Much for Milton—Win 27-13—Personal Mentions

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Milton, Jan. 10.—Saturday night the Beloit basketball team snowed under the Milton quintet by a score of 27-13. From the beginning of the contest the Beloit boys had the things their way, although the local scored the first field goal. Stan Beloit followed with another double. There was altogether too much individual playing, for they have not lost an interscholastic game so far, and look to be good enough to win their remaining scheduled games. They have improved by a large percent during the past two weeks, showing rapid strides in the finer points of the game. The highs play Friday at Stoughton. Their hardest game will be against Madison, which will play the first game here on the 24th.

ALLAN S. BAKER DIES AFTER BRIEF ILLNESS

FOUNDER OF BAKER MANUFACTURING COMPANY SUC. CUMBS AT HOME IN EVANSVILLE.

HAD NOTABLE CAREER

Learned Blacksmith's Trade as Youth as Preparation for Conducting Great Profit-Sharing Business.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Evansville, Jan. 10.—Honorable A. S. Baker succumbed at his home in this city Sunday morning about 11:30 after a very brief illness with influenza and heart trouble.

Allan S. Baker, founder of the Baker Manufacturing company of this city and only remaining member of the firm of five, who first organized the company, was born near Evansville, January 12, 1812. He belonged to one of the old West Virginia families whose ancestry on the paternal side runs back to England, and on the maternal side to Germany.

John T. Baker, father of the deceased, was born in Cincinnati, Ohio, in October of 1806. In 1836 he came to Rock County residing in the town of Atwood until 1840 when he moved to the town of Union. He died in Evansville April 1875. Of his seven sons and two daughters but two brothers survive: A. S. Baker, they are E. J. Baker of Marysville, Mo., and S. J. Baker of this city.

In early years Mr. Baker served an apprenticeship to the trade of blacksmith and that trade was his vocation to the very end. When the Civil War broke out he was one of the first to respond to his country's call for troops to enslave our南部邦聯.

On April 20, 1861 he became a member of Company H, 2nd Wisconsin Volunteer Infantry which regiment formed a part of the famous Iron Brigade and in that gallant command, he served in several of the most important battles of the war.

He was at Gainesville, through Chancellorsville and Gettysburg. At Gainesville he was severely wounded in the right shoulder and was sent to a hospital at Philadelphia where he remained until February 1863. By that time his army only to be again seriously wounded in the Battle of Gettysburg, July 1863.

After the conflict of the wounded were removed, Mr. Baker was struck in the abdomen by a minie ball, which instead of passing straight through his body, took a circular direction, striking his thigh bone, was deflected and lodged in the fleshy part of the spinal column, where it became deeply imbedded. The surgeons failed to attempt the removal of the bullet from the mass of surrounding artery in the operation, so the missile remained in his body for nearly twenty years when it finally worked up to the surface and was removed without surgical assistance.

After being wounded at Gettysburg, he was unable to fit further duty on the field. He went to Washington and was mustered out. Returning to his home here, he engaged in carriage making.

In 1873 the Baker Manufacturing company was organized under the firm name of A. S. Baker and company. They began with a capital stock of $6,000, which has been increased in the present capitalization of one million dollars. Mr. Baker has had the management of the company's business until recent years, when he was succeeded by his son, J. S. Baker, A. S. Baker being president of the company.

Mr. Baker and Miss Margaret Sayers were married March 23, 1865. She was born in the historic battlefield of Brandywine, Dela., Oct. 1, 1842, and was a daughter of John and Sarah (Bridgeman) Sayers. Three children blessed the union of Mr. and Mrs. Baker, all of whom survive: Mrs. Elsie Larue, John S. Baker, both of this city, and Mrs. Beegie Biglow of Rockford. Mrs. Baker died about two years ago.

Mr. Baker was one of the representative business men of Rock county, and an enterprising and progressive citizen of Evansville, in the welfare of which he had taken the greatest interest.

He was a republican and as such was twice elected as assemblyman for this district in 1900 and 1906. He was a strong temperance man, holding that the liquor traffic should be suppressed by the strong arm of law.

He was a member of the Congregational church and served as deacon of that organization. He was president of the village board of trustees and served several terms on the county board. He served as school treasurer of district No. 6, which includes the city of Evansville and a portion of the adjacent country.

He was one of the organizers of the Evansville telephone exchange and at one time its president.

On February 15th he was to have given an address during the Wisconsin convention and induced the convention to be held at the University Feb. 14-18, explaining the Baker Manufacturing company plan of profit sharing which has attracted world-wide attention. Other speakers during the session are to be, J. D. Beck of the industrial commission, Prof. John R. Common and Prof. W. A. Scott.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the Congregational church.

Edgerton News

EDGERTON, Jan. 10.—On Jan. 15, the new fare on Interstate railroad business will be increased from 2c per mile to 2 and 2-1/2c per mile. This will have no effect on business within the state and the fair will remain the same as formerly, 2c per mile. But to points outside the state the rate will be 2 and 2-1/2c per mile. The fare to Chicago now is $2.16 and the fare will be $2.59. When the matter of increasing passenger rates was submitted to the railroad commission of the state of Wisconsin about a year ago, the commission decided that the present rate of 2c per mile was sufficient and would not allow the increase asked for by the railroads.

UNITED STATES SHOULD PREPARE AGAINST WAR SAY'S FAMED PUBLICIST.

"Nor is our purpose preparedness for war, but preparedness against war that we may be able to fight successfully if we are forced to do so."

"The present popular craze for preparedness for war leads straight to militarism. Prussian preparedness, the very root of modern militarism, is the direct cause of the exhausting armaments of modern European nations. Militarism inevitably prevents national moral sense.

It breeds treachery, the policy of righting of treaties as scraps of paper, the shelling of Lusitania, the shooting of Edith Cavell. Human nature is the same in America as abroad. That is what preparedness for war will do for us."

Roger Sherman Hoar, ex-assistant attorney general, who was the next speaker:

"Let us waste no time trying to stop the present war. That question will be settled by the belligerents themselves. If we would prevent war, we must eliminate the causes of war.

Cause should be distinguished from occasion. The cause is what builds up the pyre for a world conflagration.

But the occasion is merely the match that happens to set it off. The master we must blame for laying the foundation for the pyre is a Jekyll-Hyde sort of deity, whose good name is Patriotism and whose bad name is Nationalism. A few score years ago we owed our allegiance to the state, today we owe it to the nation, tomorrow we shall owe it to the internation."
